1976: THE YEAR THAT WAS

"1976 has been, perhaps, the most challenging year for the Americas & Asia Group thus far. During the year we committed ourselves to many aggressive ventures, expanded our market coverage and reorganized in some areas to build a stronger base from which to operate. Our accomplishments are measurable and our contributions to the Corporation as a whole showed marked improvement."

Thus began Marcelo Gutierrez in his 1976 letter to the employees of the Americas & Asia Group.

1976 left its mark on the A & A world in a year in which currency devaluation in Brazil, Peru, Argentina, Mexico, Australia and New Zealand, import restrictions tightened in Brazil, three new earthquakes in Japan and Peru, a flood in Japan and hurricanes in Mexico. A president resigned in Japan and new presidents were elected in the United States and Mexico. There were revolutions in Argentina and Peru. All in all, not a very pretty picture.

Keeping in mind, however, the vibrant political and economic environments in which the people of A & A worked in 1976, we can all be proud of our accomplishments. They were truly remarkable.

High caliber personnel joined our ranks such as a new Country Manager in Australia. We saw our sales areas expanded. A new office was opened in New Zealand. Phone Power Sales was launched in Brazil and Venezuela. Monitors received positive coverage in the international press.

Worral joined the management ranks to bring us many A & A Media. De Oros, Manager of Finance and Administration in Australia, Patricia O'Leary, Personnel Manager in Canada, Rosanna Zarba, "Ms. Monitor" in Peru, Gail Olson, Waste Processing Sales in Australia and Linda Robinson, Computer Media Sales in Vancouver.

There were new faces at Headquarters as well. Guy Cahen and Edger Francisco were added to Barry Carpenter's group to beef-up the distributor markets in Latin America and the Far East, respectively. Tala Hernandez was appointed Japanese Liaison. Don Hennrich joined us as Planning Manager. Paul Peters joined Jeff Henney's group as Inventory and Asset Control Specialist and Jeff Cahen joined us as a Sales Trainer.

Now we turn our sights to 1977 which promises to be an exciting and challenging year for us all. There will be new demands and opportunities in the days to go, but we have proven that we can succeed, and succeed we will.

Happy New Year to you all. Let's join together and commit ourselves to a prosperous and successful year for the A & A Team.

Australia is the world's largest island and smallest continent. It is the only continent occupied by a single nation and, with an area of nearly 7,500,000 square kilometers, is about the same size as the United States (excluding Alaska and Hawaii); its political boundaries include six states, two mainland territories and several external territories.

Memoire Australia began operations in 1970 with its head office in Sydney and expanded its operations by opening a Melbourne Branch office in April of 1971. In the original employees during the first year of Memoire Australia's operation, the number remaining is 5. They are Dick Butler, Warren Sutton, Ian Dale, Anita Grant, Ray Yates and Tony Kettleidge. The number of employees expanded during 1975 from 27 to 32 employees (5 in Melbourne and 26 in Sydney), with special emphasis being placed on the Finance and Administration areas.

Memoire Sydney relocated to a new office building at the close of 1975 incorporating Administration, Finance, Sales, Engineering and Warehousing facilities. A computerized invoice accounting system will be implemented early in 1977.

1976 was truly a year of change for Australia. A new office was opened in New Zealand, Brian Wilby was appointed Country Manager, a training course was conducted by Ken Ford. The Management Training course was the first such course held in Memoire Australia.

Melbourne Office Staff: Abby Jones, Ian Dale, Phil Anderson, Steve Hall, Tony Kettleidge, Wendy Johnson, Ray Yates, Peter Johnson and Mike Archer.

The Melbourne office has an enviable record of securing the first sale of each new product introduced in Australia by Memoire. They secured the first major equipment account in 1972 with Dulux Limited, installed the first 1275, and the first Colomark 76 and received the first order for the new 3840 disc drive.

New products introduced to the Memoire product line in Australia recently have been the Colomark, Cubic Computer Tapes, the 801 Flexdisc Disc Drive, 3840 and 3850 Disc Drives, 1277 Visual Display Screens and the 8000 series Memory Systems.

The Australian subsidiary is divided into four (4) operating groups. In the Equipment Products area there are currently three sub-groups, Dick Butler, Warren Sutton and Ian Dale. In the past, equipment marketing has been limited to Sydney and Melbourne. 1977 plans are to expand equipment marketing to Adelaide, Brisbane and Canberra. The major strength in equipment marketing in Australia is the reputation of the Field Service and Maintenance staff and their record of reliability and performance. Memoire Australia has never had an installed site due to poor maintenance performance in its five years of equipment sales. The stability of Field Service Engineering is reflected in the fact that not one member of the group has left the company since commencement of equipment marketing in 1972.
